

Privacy Information Sporthive.com

A Sporthive account allows you to collect sport related data in one central account. You are in control over what information you allow others to see. By storing or connection data with your Sporthive account you agree that we store this information. This can include (but is not limited to) training data, practice data, your own selfies or event results. You can configure who can see your information in your profile settings. Or chose to hide your profile altogether.

Data usage and distribution

We sometimes share anonymous information with selected partners. We only share aggregated information that is anonymized and no longer relatable to a specific individual.

Retention period

We store information for an undetermined period. This is according to what most users expect. If you want to change this, please contact privacy@mylaps.com

Contact

In case you have any further questions about Sporthive please check our general Privacy Policy. In case of doubt, you can also send an email to privacy@mylaps.com.